RECEPTION, LUNCHEONS AND DANCE FOR SIX DEBUTANTES

Miss Mary Paul Noyes Is Introduced at Party Given by Her Mother.

Each day of the holiday season finds the debutantes well occupied with special entertainments in their honor, and yesterday and last night there were four parties for six young women just entering society.

Paris's Christmas eve celebration this year will be on the same magnificent scale as last year, but prices will be at least 30 per cent cheaper even in the big hotels and boulevard regtaurants, where preparations are being made for record breaking crowds.

Since the war hotels like the Claridge and the Ritz, as well as restaurants such as the Cafe de Paris and Ciro's, have held Christmas balls with midnight suppers, with champagne flowing at the rate of 200 francs for each person, but to-morrow night it will be possible to dance and dine at any of these places for 130 francs, while the boulevard palaces and gaiety centers of Montmartre are offering a fixed price as low as 40 francs a person and a special bottle of champagne for only 30 francs extra, although wine prices in Montmartre are ordinarily double this amount.

This attempt to revive the pre-war spirit of the "Reveillon" by ceasing profiteering for one night promises to be a great success, as it is already impossible to reserve a table in the better known establishments.

The Christmas program of the American colony here includes special dinners Mrs. Minturn Pinchot gave a dance Janavince Kerens, Gladys Wilkes, Heien Wardlow, Elizabeth Strong, Dorothy Rose, Mary Moore, Rosemary Kellogs, an Beatrice Hyde, May Parsons, Betty Wolcott Merchant, May Stoddard Yeomans, Dorothy Morrill, Margaret B. Gilbert, Ethel Schmelzel, Anne Burr, Ellen Evans, Dorothy Kidd, Grace Cuyler, Elanche Etrebeigh and Sally Peters, Later in the season Mrs. Slegman will give a dance for her daughter, who recently returned here from a lengthy stay in Europe.
